“ Sadly, I was most surprised to read of Wendy's passing. Wendy was my girlfriend from her freshman year of high school to well into her freshman year of college. We created a special bond, in that both her parents had died on a auto crash, and she sort of leaned on me for some support at times. However in time, we both drifted apart. A few years ago, we exchanged some Facebook messages, when I found some old photos of us my parents had taken, so I sent them to her. She got a kick out of that. I have some fond memories of those days we spent together.
